GCG General Information

The Genealogical Computing Group (GCG) is a Special Interest Group of the New Zealand Society of Genealogists (NZSG) and has several hundred subscribers throughout New Zealand.

Our three key objectives are to:

- foster and encourage the use of computers as a tool for genealogical research
 - provide subscribers with information and advice on the use of computers and their programs (which assist genealogical research)
 - assist computer projects related to the storage, retrieval and indexing of genealogical information
- The GCG has a national committee elected at Annual General Meetings, responsible for :
- maintaining the GenCom News subscriber database
 - sponsoring and supporting the establishment of “subgroups”
 - publishing a quarterly magazine - GenCom News - dispatched in March, June, September, and December
 - liaising with the New Zealand Society of Genealogists
 - maintaining our web site

If you would like help to use your computer effectively for researching your family history, join us.

GCG Subgroups

are local organisations which operate wherever there are GCG members who wish to meet regularly.

Meetings can be formal and have a speaker on a genealogical computing topic or they can be run as a workshop with participation by members.

Meeting topics include:

- genealogical software
- using computer programs for genealogy
- the internet
- computer peripherals
- and just about anything which includes genealogy and computing

Beginners are especially welcome and there are opportunities to ask questions. Some subgroups host annual “Open Days” where the public are invited to view the resources and activities of members, and to consider joining the group.

An invitation to renew your subscription accompanies each March issue of GenCom News. New subscribers joining during the year receive all the issues for that financial year, and back-numbers of GenCom News are also available while stocks last.

A subscription form can be downloaded from our website, or obtained by

- emailing the membership secretary
- writing to our Secretary at P.O. Box 26697 Epsom, Auckland 1344
